According to official reports, the number of city paupers relieved and supported during the year ending December 1, 1858, was 130,150, being about one-seventh the population, and an increase over the preceding year of 37,011, involving a public expenditure of about $500,000. The commitments for crime during the same period numbered 35,172, which was an increase of more than twenty-five per cent over the preceding year, at an outlay of more than $300,000; making the annual cost to our tax-payers, for pauperism and crime alone, about $800,000. Despite, however, of this enormous expenditure, these fearful evils still remain unchecked."
